To the ESID Junior Country Representatives,

My name is Inês Farinha, I am 30 years old and I am currently in the last year of my Allergy and Clinical Immunology residency at Coimbra Hospital and University Centre. In my hospital we have several specialists interested in the area of immunodeficiencies and we have a specific consultation for PID that works in a pediatric hospital. So, every day of my residency, I am encouraged to seek more information about PIDs and do research work in this area.

I am writing to express my sincere interest in continuing as my country's junior representative at the European Society for Immunodeficiencies (ESID). I am enthusiastic about the opportunity to further contribute to the advancement of our collective goals and the support of our community to improve awareness, diagnosis, treatment, education and understanding of primary immunodeficiency diseases (PIDs).

As a junior representative, I am committed to fostering a sense of community and collaboration among my peers. I believe that by working together, sharing our knowledge, and supporting one another, we can achieve significant advancements in the field of immunodeficiencies to give the best treatment and allowing PID patients to live their lives to their full potential.

I am deeply grateful for the opportunity to have served as my country's junior representative and for the support and guidance I have received from the ESID community. I am confident that, if given the chance to continue in this role, I can further contribute to the society's mission and help drive forward the important work we are doing together.

Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to the possibility of continuing to serve ESID and our community.

Yours sincerely,

Inês Farinha
